

Picking Out Your Perfect Penis Sleeve

A penis sleeve is one of the main types of toys men use for masturbation, and over the years there have been new developments in the technology that make them better and better for stimulation.

The thing is there are many different kinds, including a vibrating penis sleeve and a penis sleeve extension . With so many choices, how do you determine which penis sleeve is for you?

Start with the reason you want one. A penis sleeve extension is ideal for a man who might be a little bit smaller than average and wants to please his woman. Alternatively, a penis girth sleeve is pretty much necessary for a bigger dick if the goal is that ultimate orgasm. Sometimes even guys have a hard time getting into the mood so they use a penis pump sleeve like the Autoblow to get the ball rolling. There are just so many uses for them for masturbating and sex.

A vibrating penis sleeve is great for extra stimulation, and when they have realistic features like the Fleshlight they can enhance the fantasy during masturbation. You can use the Autoblow penis pump sleeve to get yourself super hard for when you are about to have sex and your girl will find that you're cumming extra hard when you finish. The fact that both the Autoblow and the Fleshlight have penis girth sleeve options means that even the big guys don't have to miss out.

Of course, another advantage of using various penile sex toys is that it leaves the opportunity for using male g-spot stimulators too like the Aneros. Whether your penis sleeve is hands-free or not, you'll be able to use the Aneros because it stays in place once you insert it, making it the perfect complement to any of your favorite toys.